PERSONAL AND SOCIETY.

What Is Talked About Society has somewhat revived during the past week, and several large gatherings have been held. On Monday two weddings took place. At 11 o'clock, Miss Mary Cones, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Cones, was married to Mr. Jay Voss, at the Bates House. The ceremony was impressive and witnessed by only the immediate families. Mr. and Mrs. Voss left at soon for St. Louis. In the evening, at the New Denison House, Miss Florence Bamberger besame the wife of Mr. S. I. Kiser, both promicent members in Hebrew society circles. The wedding party consisted only of the family and a few friends, yet it numbered nearly eighty. At half past 9 a large reception was held and was followed by a ball, which lasted until a late hour, when Mr. and Mrs. Kiser left for a two weeks' trip to Cincincati, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago.

On Wednesday Mrs. I. P. Gray and Mrs. Pierre Gray gave a large and fashionable reception at the Governor's house on North Peensylvania street. The spacious parlors were filled with a gathering of handsome women in beautiful costumes. The appointments of all portions of the entertainment were complete. The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Jaqua and Miss Jaqua, of Union City, and Miss Gertrude Jordan.— Selections of fine music were heard in the intervals of conversation, and a profusion of flowers added their perfume to the atmosphere. Thursday Mrs. May Wright Bewall gave a large reception in honor of Mrs. Ormiston Chant, of London, England, which was preceded by a conversation, led by Mrs. Chant, on "English Women in Reforma." The talk was a rich intellectual feast, and the reception was equally as pleasant socially. About two hundred ladies, representing the education and culture of the miss, were present, to enjoy the delightful double entertainment. Friday placed on its social record the reception given by Mrs. Major Taylor, and a tea by Mrs. Morris Defrees, in honor of her sister, Mrs. Frank Ross, of Terre Haute. The usual pleasant accompaniments of music vad flowers was added to the oft-recurring responses of friends, which these receptions always bring. It often happens that the entire The wedding party consisted only of the and flowers was added to the oft-recurring respicous of friends, which these receptions always bring. It often happens that the entire acquaintance of several women is carried on by the meetings at these social gatherings and an occasional bow in the attrect. One hostess recently said, "Mrs.—and I have exchanged calls for three years, and yet I never met her until she came to my reseption. I did not know her by sight, and when the entered the room she was obliged to introduce herself, for we had never found each other at home when calling. Her first visit had been

There is more than one important point in politoness which the seemingly fastidious have often erred in, but there was one which was seriously broken last week. The occasion was a large reception, and the invitations limited the hours to from 3 to 6 o'clock. It was nearly If not quite 4 when the first guest arrived and almost 8 when the last one departed, and the only thing that kept them so long was that they were determined to go to the refreshment-room. If enough of the company had arrived in time If enough of the company had arrived in time the dining-room could have been filled rapidly enough for the last guests to have been leaving the house at 6. Suppose the house at 6. Suppose the house at 6. Suppose the house expects to have a tea sempany after her reception, and 6:30 was the hour. Can anyone, except under similar circumstances, imagine her state of mind, if the first guests remain for two hours longer than they were invited to! A woman should make an especial point of being out of the house at the limit of the time named just as much as she should be in the house at the given hour when invited to a dinner, tea or luncheon. There is one woman here who is charming in conversation, cordial in manner, and a delightful entertainer in every way, and yet, a delightful entertainer in every way, and yet, with all her good qualities, she is omitted from many an invitation list, for she is never on time. At a 6 o'clock dinner she appears at 7:30; for a 4 o'clock tea, 5:30 finds her approaching the house, and as for church, she was never known to be nearer on time than to just catch the text of the sermon, and one day found her there in time for the contribution-box.

A new style, or rather a very old style of Wraps revived, called the Irish coat, has been adopted by some of the young ladies, and a proper name for it might possibly be, the balloon. It is not fearfully and wonderfully made, as some of the enter garments are, yet the first sight of one is apt to stir you from center to circumference. It is a very correct article to wear, if, going to a party, you wish to coverfyour dress, and equally useful to wear out riding. The wrap is made of light-weight wool material. A round yoke about six inches deep fits the shoulders smoothly, to this is shirred a full circular piece, which reaches to the bottom of the skirt, where it is reaches to the bottom of the skirt, where it is faished with a four-inch hem. The yoke is braided with the same or a contrasting color, and a broad border of braiding may be put on the bottom if one does not mind the extra work. They are much fuller than the circular recently gone out of style, and the two or three rows of shirring keeps it from spreading out too much over the arms. One garment of this description was arms. One garment of this description was seen on the street one windy day last week, and the way it filled and spread like a balloon gave the wearer anything but a graceful, wasp-like figure. If the fashion should be generally adopted it would be a boon to the fat woman, who groans at the idea of her superfluous flesh, for under its ample draperies she would appear as sylph-like as a girl of sixteen.

The characters will be assumed by well-known people, and the representations will be as grand as anything of the kind ever given here. Mrs. A. E. Bradford, of Washington, D. C., has the entertainment in charge, and furnishes the scenery and costumes. The many beautiful scenes from the book are given with great faithfulness, and the famous chariot race is given with wonderful effect. The appointments are complete in every particular, and many who are very much interested in the book are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to seeing the word pictures transferred to life. ure to seeing the word pictures transferred to life.
Parties from adjoining cities are making preparations to attend, and large audiences are expected. The whole is under the auspices of a number of society ladies, who are laboring indefatigably for its success, and selecting with great care those who are to take the several parts. While all who might take part have not been invited, each has been chosen with specia

reference to the character to be assumed. The musical event of this week will be the regular grand concert by the Mendelssohn Society at Plymouth Church on Wednesday evening. The programme for this concert is the lightest Professor Barus has so far arranged for the society, although every number is of the best class of music. The chorus is large and well trained. Many of the best class of music. the best singers in the city are members of it. The orchestra is a good one as all orchestras are under Prof. Barus's direction. The soloists are all excellent singers. Hofmann's "Fairest Melusina" is the longest number to be given. This beautiful work has not been heard here for several years, but it has always been received with much favor wherever given, on account of its bright mel ody. The solos in "Melusina" will be taken by Mrs. Anna L. Walker and Mr. F. H. Hemstreet Miss Lottie Adem, accompanied by the orchestra, will sing the aris from "Der Freischuetz," and Mr. W. H. Daggett, a pleasing tenor, will sing "Forget Me Not." by Suppe. The orchestra has three numbers—the overtures to "Semiramide," "Poet and Peasant," and "Mandoline," or "Mexican Serenade," for strings, a very pretty, "catchy" piece. The great "Halle-lujah Chorus," from the "Messiah," by the full society will be a feature of the concert. As at the former concerts the chorus will be seated in tiors, and the orchestra on the large platform ex-tended out from the organ in the church. Reserved sents can be obtained at D. H. Baldwin & Co.'s.

Early in the week quaint little invitations were sent out by the children of Mr. and Mrs. John Carey, Martha, Elinor, Ruth and Mary, for a party, yester-day afternoon, at 3 o'clock. Nearly all of the invitations were accepted, and a merrier party of sweet children it would be difficult to make. Beauties they children it would be difficult to make. Heauties they were, and in their dainty picturesque costumes, were a beautiful picture—little ones from three to twelve years old. After their greeting to the hostesses, several mammas entertained with the Brownie dance and giant beby. Most of the children attend the kindergarten, and some of their games were enjoyed, and their voices joined in the appropriate song. "Oh. Lovely May." and surely the day could not have been lovelier. The children were seated in small chairs around two open squares in the yard for their refreshments, and then each had a bon-bon and paper cap, and soon each little head in the yard for their refreshments, and then each had a bon-bon and paper cap, and soon each little head was adorned with the bright-colored cap of tissue. The company consisted of Myla Coburn, Coburn and Maynard Allen, Fannie, Mary and Max Fletcher, Alfred Ogle, Harold and Freeman Hibben. Elizabeth Mokee, Annie and Fred Beck, Lena Egan, Otta Fahnley, Mary and Sue Emma Vajen, Emma and Fay Claypoot, Eunice and Augusta Jameson, Helen and Frances Crum, Frank Baker, Taylor and Anna Stewart, Margaret and Rebecca Chislett, Dillon Hacker, Garvin Brown, Katie Smith, Russell and Wm. Wm. Norman Whipped by Masked Men. Special to the Indianapolis Journal. BLOOMINGTON, Ind., May 5 .- Word has been received here of an outrage committed on Wm. Norman, of Polk township, that is only equaled by the record of the "White Caps" that are disgracing the southern part of the State. It seems, from reports, that Mr. Norman was an important witness in a trial in court which was creating considerable ill feeling in his neighborhood. The night before the trial, about 12 o'clock, Norman heard some one knocking at his door, and stepping outside he was seized by a number of men whom he could not recognize by reason of heavy masks. They took him a snort distance from the house and began whipping him with rods. He appealed to them to stop, and cried for help, but without avail. They kept up the torture for fully five minutes, when they left him. He was unable to reach his house and had to the minutes and had to reach his house and had to reach him had t his house, and had to secure the assistance of his wife and family. Since that time he has been confined to his bed, suffering intense pain. The case has caused great excitement in the neighborhood, and will be fully investigated by the grand jury at its next meet-

Alleged Doctor Seat to Jall. CINCINNATI, May 5.-A man calling himself Dr. Albert LeGrand, who had rented parlors for the practice of medicine for the healing of nervous diseases without the use of drugs, was recognized yesterday by Mr. Louis Roth as Albert Geismen, who ten years ago obtained some $10,000 worth of gloves from him upon false representations, and who has since been in hiding. He immediately had him arrested and the man is now in jail, unable to give $1,000 hand. bond. There are other merchants who were victime at the same time who will prefer charges against him. Geisman is represented as having made much money by his medical practice. He had hired a theater for a public-healing exhibition to-morrow night.

Gen. Force and the Ohio Soldiers' Home. CINCINNATI, O., May 5 .- The board of trustees of the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Home, at Sandusky, O., in session here to-day, after a careful consideration of several old soldiers whose names had been suggested, unanimously voted to tender the appointment of sommandant of the Home to Gen. Manning F. Force, of Cincianati. The board then called on General Force, who accepted the appointment. It is now expected that the Home will be ready for a num-ber of inmates by midsummer. This appointment will undoubtedly give universal satisfaction through-out the State, both on account of the distinguished military services of General Force, and of his high character as a civilian. Presbyterianism in Montgomery County.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. CRAWFORDSVILLE, May 5 .-- The home missionary committee of the Crawfordsville Presbytery met yesterday afternoon in the parlors of the First Presbyterian Church. Those present were: Rev. G. D. Parker, Rev. W. P. Kane, D. D., Rev. L. D. Fyffe, Rev. F. H. Hays, and Elder Jas. A. Mount. The object of the meeting was so to arrange the vacant churenes that the congregations could have preaching a portion of the time at least. The home missionary, Rev. Fyffe, who resides here, was instructed to devote half of his labors at Alamo, Newport and Eugene, and the remaining portion to other vacant churches. The following churches were grouped together, and will support a minister: Pleasant Hill and Rossville, West Point and Romney, West Lebanon, State Line and Marshfield, Russellville, Judson and Parkersburg, Ladoga and Union Church, near Mace. These fields are all now vacant, except the first. The Shannondale church will make an effort to sustain a minister all the time.

Brakeman Fatally Crushed.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. VALPARAISO, Ind., May 5 .- Yesterday, at Boone Grove station, ten miles south of here, W. R. Berlin. a tra-eling man of Indianapolis, in company with W. J. Henry, of this place, was walking near the track of the Chicago & Atlantic railroad when their attention was called by groans coming as if from some one in distress. Upon investigation they found George Green, a brakeman, who had been fatally crushed. A physician was summoned and the wounded man conveyed to a house near by. His injuries will prove fatal. His home is at Huntington.

BUCK-Orley Buck, only son of John W. and Aman-la P. Buck, died, at Indianapolis, Ind., of pusumonia, Puesday, May 1, 1888, aged twenty years and six Orley's sterling integrity and manly qualities had endeared him to a large circle of acquaintances. He was a model son and brother, whose highest ambition seemed to be to lighten the cares of his parents and to provide for the comfort and pleasure of an only sister.

Of a bright, cheerful and loving temperament, he carried sunshine wherever he went, and dark indeed will seem the home from which such a light has gone out, until there somes to the bereaved ones the full realization that the parting is but for a little while, and the present pain is lost in the joy of the anticipation of a reunion beyond the shores of time. BURKE-C. E., Mrs., at 9:18 o'clock yesterday norning, at 950 North New Jersey street, after a negring illness of several months.
